

Proposition 22
Analytical Refinement

- I A row of red pincushions

- II It is not inconceivable that should effort be devoted to validating or disproving the Triad interpretation of the Turner research as complementing theories of subculture emergence (extension of strain), why they take a particular shape (extension of social disorganization), and why they continue from one generation to another (extension of differential association), paralysis induced by the G-8 when it failed to explore the potential of the discovery identified in the Bridgeport garage may dissolve.

- III The red handle of a Phillips screwdriver acknowledged relevance.

- IV Two lines, each in its own plane, skewed one to the other, with filaments connecting them: A few cinder blocks: An umbrella held in the vertical, as if against a stiff breeze: The hourglass icon showing that a computer program is running.
